

HARRY LAY

CFO

Professional Summary

Lay polished his unique, cross-industry skills and expertise in both the private and public business sectors. He served as the Partner-in-Charge of Non-Traditional Consulting Services & the Director of Profit Advisory for a regional CPA firm, & President/CFO of an international architectural & engineering firm which oversaw the process from design to opening of all Wal-Mart stores built in the U.S. from 1990-1996. In the public accounting sector, Lay served nineteen years in public accounting in three firms, two international and one local.

Leveraging his experience in the public and private sectors, Harry has enjoyed teaching a variety of continuing education courses & facilitating seminars for professional associations & private companies, including CEO Space International, where he has served as a member of the faculty since 2004. He has been featured in Fortune magazine, The Wall Street Journal, Oklahoma Professional Performance magazine, & serves as a member of numerous Boards of Directors.